Here's the PLOW you need for breaking sod

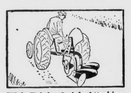
Dearborn FARM EQUIPMENT

● This Dearborn plow is made for the Ford Tractor . . . and we think it's the best ever. So simple—it has no wheels, axle, tongue, clutch, springs or levers . . . but good sturdy beams and as fine bases, coulters and jointers as ever turned a furrow.

With Ford Hydraulic Touch Control, you can "take it easy" while two matching well-turned furrows unroll behind you.

Simple adjustments. Only three grease gun fittings to lubricate. Study the pictures, then see us if you want a new plowing experience. Come in the next time you're in town.

Ford TRACTOR



With Triple-Quick Attaching, plow is attached to the tractor in one minute.

Hydraulic Touch Control raises plow for easy turning, and fast transport on road.

A touch of the Hydraulic lever lowers plow. Automatic control of depth made possible.

No detaching and re-attaching when plow hits an obstruction.

● We deliver the service and have the parts for Dearborn Farm Equipment as well as for all Ford Tractors.

Bigger Popcorn Explosion Makes Bang-Up Product

AMES, IOWA—Science is putting a bigger pop in popcorn to make it fluffier and less crunchy.

Not long ago popcorn that exploded into 24 times its original size was considered good. Now good popcorn expands 28 to 30 times in volume.

Some varieties developed by Dr. J. C. Eldredge and associates at the agricultural experiment station of Iowa State college have expanded 34 times in tests. This big an explosion doesn't always occur, and size 34 popcorn isn't available for popcorn growers. But it may come along in time.

The bigger the explosion, the bigger, fluffier and tenderer the pieces of popped corn, Dr. Eldredge said. People like it better, even though they get less popcorn to a bag.

Popcorn venders like it better, too, because it takes less corn to draw as much money in sales.

Emphasize Explosions

For years the emphasis in plant breeding has been to get the bigger explosions. The job is difficult, because the corn also must give high yields, stand up well and be suitable for machine harvesting.

Only certain kinds of corn pop well. Mosture in the kernel turns to steam, and the kernel explodes. The steam pressure has to be generated quickly enough to produce a sudden expansion.

It has been thought that the hull acted like a bomb cover, holding in the steam for a time. But this doesn't seem to be the answer. The hulls can be damaged and the corn will still pop. The popping may be due to the structure of the millions of starch grains in the kernel, Dr. Eldredge said.

Research since 1928 here in the biggest popcorn-growing state shows some of the essentials for good popping. The temperature of the popper should be between 450 and 500 degrees. One part of oil should be used for every five parts of corn. Most important, the moisture content of the corn should be about 13 to 14 per cent.

Popcorn Production

The United States produces about 150 million pounds of popcorn a year on the average and Iowa grows about one-third of it.

About half of the crop is sold to motion-picture theater chains and finds its way into vending machines. Wholesale grocery firms take 25 per cent, selling to grocery stores and popcorn stands. Many of the stands buy directly from local growers. The other 25 per cent is used by makers of popcorn confections coated with molasses, syrup or cheese.

This year the Iowa station is testing nearly 1,200 different crosses or trial combinations of different lines of popcorn. Each year samples are popped and measured for volume, taste and tenderness. The tests supply snowy mountains of popcorn which are sold on the Iowa State campus for the benefit of the Agronomy club, the student section of the American Society of Agronomy.

Escaped Bull Stages Classy Rodeo for Busy Detroiters

DETROIT.—A bull staged a 40-minute rodeo all its own in Detroit's packinghouse district, hooking one man in the seat of the pants and terrorizing a woman.

A shot from a deer rifle finally ended it.

The bull broke out of a pen and made a dash for busy Michigan avenue. A few feet behind came George Alexander, chasing the animal in a trailer-truck.

On a corner the bull cornered a woman and tore her dress before Alexander and his truck chased him away. The woman wasn't hurt except for the fright.

Charging into the yard of a porcelain company, the bull hooked the seat of a workman's pants and tossed him over a light truck. The workman was shaken but otherwise unhurt.

Then Edward Frass, an employe, drew a bead and put a bullet through the bull's head.

German Family in Berlin Bundles Up With Alligator

BERLIN—In the Reichelt family, they sleep three in a bed—Poppa Reichelt, Momma Reichelt and Max, who happens to be an alligator.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Reichelt have other pets—dogs, cats, snakes, rabbits and monkeys—but it is only the six foot, 150-pound alligator that sleeps with them every night.

The 25-year old Max was singled out for this privilege because otherwise, say his owners, he would have died of the cold.

"He is a most reliable alligator," says Reichelt. "He's completely clean. He never snores, coughs or makes other noises."

At night, Reichelt relaxes in his easy chair with Max on his lap. Poppa Reichelt smokes a pipe. Max chews a pipe. Max needs a new pipe every month.

Max once went after another member of the household, a hen named Minna.

But that mother of eight squawked so loudly and pecked so fiercely the alligator lost heart.

Countess Says Liquor Dulls U. S. Romance

ROME.—Romance in the United States is dulled instead of stimulated by too many martinis, manhattans and gin fizzes, claims Countess Angelica Guerritore Caracciolo, Italian authority on such matters.

The 38-year-old countess, a resident of the Isle of Capri, says she was shocked when American girls told her:

"I had a wonderful time last night. I got so drunk I didn't know anything."

A certainties artist, the countess has also written several tracts on the technique of romance and has lectured on the subject.

"In Italy, it is different," she says. "When two people are in love they never touch intoxicants. It destroys their sensitiveness. They want to retain their full senses to feel the vibrations of their passion. They walk together. They sit together. They are alive to one another like a taut wire."

The countess says she has seen Americans get so drunk they go to sleep at tables with their heads buried in their arms. That, says she, is bad.

Sometimes, one will lean over and put his arm around the girl next to him—who is also inebriated, she adds.

"What feeling is there in this? None at all. Their senses are blacked out. Often they don't know what they are doing.

"Americans should not drink so much," the countess maintains. "Europeans drink much less."

The countess is not adverse to a spot now and again, herself, but she believes it mixes badly with spring love—that's all.

She thinks that is why there are so many marriage failures in the United States. Couples, she says, get married on booze instead of vibrations.

"Love is a much more enjoyable thing, on a nonalcholic basis."
